

Yanks Rout Giants, 6-2, Behind Reynolds To Even Series

Joe DiMaggio
Snaps Slump;
Maglie Loser

New York (AP) — Revived by a heaven-sent day of rest, the Yankees came back behind Allie Reynolds' fine pitching yesterday to batter the Giants, 6 to 2, and tie the World Series up at two victories apiece.

Reynolds, knocked from the box in the opener, was a different pitcher yesterday. He limited the National League to eight hits, three of them doubles by Capt. Alvin Dark, and was in charge all the way.

Joe DiMaggio, the aging Clipper, snapped out of his series slump to hammer a mighty two-run homer into the second deck at the Polo Grounds, hastening the demise of

Allie Reynolds

Sal Maglie, Giants' 23-game winner, and giving the crowd of 49,010 its biggest thrill of the one-sided exhibition.

Only once did Reynolds give Bomber fans a few fleeting moments of worry. That was in the ninth chapter when he permitted the first two Giants to reach base and Bobby Thompson singled one of them across with only one away.

But that, unfortunately, brought up youthful Willie Mays, the Giants' Negro centerfielder from Alabama, who previously had rapped into two double plays to stifle potential rallies. Willie did it again, and the game was over. Four twin killings tipped off by the Yank infield tied the World Series record and chilled the Giants.

Maglie, whom Leo Durocher had figured to handcuff the American Leaguers and shoot his club into an unbeatable 3-1 lead, didn't have his usual mastery and departed for a pinchhitter after the Yanks had taken a 4-1 advantage on DiMaggio's blow in the fifth. Sheldon Jones was the victim of two more unearned tallies in the three innings he worked, but Montia Kennedy held the winners tightly in check in the ninth. By then it was much too late.

Workers Listen To Series With Owner Of Plant

Salisbury, Md. (AP) — James I. Wells, owner of a croesetting plant here, knows how it is with the World Series on. Who wants to work? Nobody.

So every day during the series he blows the whistle at 12:30 to knock off work. The 120 men working for him gather to listen to the game by radio. The whistle sounds again to send them back to work when the game's over.

"It's hard to keep your mind on your work and listen to the game," says Wells. "I couldn't blame the men for running back and forth to radios to hear the score. I'd do the same thing myself."

Tax Conferees Drop Exemption

Washington (AP) — Tax bill conferees agreed yesterday to remove the tax-exempt feature of the special expense allowances received by the President, Vice President and members of Congress.

The expense allowances would be retained, but they would become subject to regular individual income tax rates. The President gets a $50,000 expense allowance in addition to his $100,000 salary; the Vice President and speaker of the House $30,000 expenses on top of their $30,000 pay, and members of the House and Senate $2,500 expenses over their $12,500 salaries.

India To Fall Like China, Says Stassen

Washington (AP) — Harold E. Stassen charged yesterday a Red "pattern of action" is being cut out for the domination of India, just like the one that led to the Communist conquest of China.

Stassen also declared the record makes it clear that the State department—despite denials by Secretary of State Acheson—played a part in undermining Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist regime.

Testifying before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee, the former Republican governor of Minnesota said:

"The denials by the State department of things which I know are true, the claims by the State department of things I know are not true, leave me very uneasy and disturbed with regard to our country's future policy."

Warning that "catastrophic results" would follow if India fell to the Reds, Stassen told the subcommittee:

"India in Communist hands, added to China in Communist hands, would place the rich southeast of Asia, Indo-China, Malaya, Burma and Thailand in the position of a lush plum in a nutcracker."

Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, gave his views in testifying on President Truman's nomination of Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup as a delegate to the forthcoming United Nations General Assembly in Paris.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) has challenged the nomination, accusing Jessup of following "every twist and turn of the Communist line." Jessup has denied it.

In another development, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of a Senate internal security subcommittee came out firmly against Senate confirmation of Jessup, but Senator Lehman (D-Lib-Ny.) praised the appointment and predicted it will be approved.

Stassen said he was not attempting to "classify" the men involved in what he described as a plot to bring about a Red upheaval in India, but he said:

"What is very important is the fact that all over the world men who were participating in the China pattern of action are now transferring to India."

Later in his testimony, Stassen said one significant point in U. S.-India relations was that Indian Prime Minister Nehru's request for 1,000,000 tons of wheat for his famine-threatened country was not presented to Congress until 15 months after Nehru asked for it.

Stassen said Nehru made the request on a visit to this country in October, 1949. But he said it was not laid before Congress until December, 1950, "after the situation in India had become very acute."

Throughout 1951, he said, "the crucial issues with India have been handled in a manner such that our relations have further deteriorated."

Atomic Blast May Come This Week

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy commission completed a whirlwind tour of the Nevada proving grounds yesterday, then announced:

"We're ready any time to set it off."

Just when the forthcoming atomic test blast will occur Dean would not divulge. They're booking bets in this gambling and resort town that it will come late this week.

Nearly 10,000 persons — including mothers with babes in arms and box lunches — fought police and each other for a glimpse of Willie's $2,500 gold and bronze casket and $8,000 worth of floral pieces that flanked the bier.

They mobbed the Morocco funeral parlor in nearby Passaic, stamped around Corpus Christi Roman Catholic church in adjacent Hasbrouck Heights and trampled graves and toppled headstones in St. Michael's cemetery here.

They came from all over. There were sleek Cadillacs from nearby New York and Packards from Illinois. Extra details of police had all they could do to cope with the traffic and the thousands who lined the funeral route.

Princess Lands In Canada At Start Of 31-Day Tour

Montreal, Que., (AP) — Smiling Princess Elizabeth landed here yesterday with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, and boarded her special train for a month-long tour among the people of Canada who one day may come under her rule.

The train moved leisurely through the Quebec countryside for a stop at an unnamed siding last night. It will push on to Quebec city today for the formal beginning of the tour at 9:45 a. m.

As soon as the formalities of welcome were out of the way the Princess' first thought was to call her mother, Queen Elizabeth, to report a smooth, safe flight on the 3,400-mile trip from London and to inquire after the health of her ailing father, King George.

The thousands who gathered at the airport and along the route to the 10-car royal train on a nearby siding, got a sample of the charm which Canadians will see as the party proceeds across the country.

As Elizabeth stepped down the gangplank—amid a jarring 21-gun salute—she looked very much like any other well-groomed young matron. She wore light makeup, a mink jacket, a blue-green wool dress, with low cut V-neck and tight-fitting skirt, a small velvet hat of matching color, and small pearl earrings.

Her handsome 30-year-old husband wore his lieutenant-commander's uniform of the Royal Navy, including a great coat.

Clerical Staff Strikes Against CWA-CIO Union

Washington (AP) — The Clerical staff of the Communication Workers of America (CIO) went on strike yesterday for better pay, formed a picket line and wore placards with such inscriptions as "CWA practice what you preach."

Local 1670, composed of stenographers, bookkeepers and clerks, said they struck because they were unable to negotiate a new contract with their bosses.

Carlton W. Werkau, secretary-treasurer of the international union and chief negotiator for the bosses, brushed hurriedly through the picket line.

"No comment," he told reporters.

Senate Votes Two Large Money Bills

Washington (AP) — The Senate approved two big money bills yesterday—one authorizing a $7,483,400,000 foreign aid program and another appropriating $1,744,000,000, largely for defense and economic control activities.

Both actions were on voice votes, and a jobbed mark progress toward a Fall adjournment of Congress.

Little time was needed to get the foreign aid measure out of the way, since it had passed the Senate once before in much the same form.

However, senators debated all afternoon on the smaller money bill. It made cuts of a little less than $7,000,000 in the amount recommended by its Appropriations committee.

The bill now goes to conference between the House and Senate.

Senate passage completed congressional action on the foreign aid measure. It now goes to President Truman for his signature.

Egypt Cancels British Pact

Cairo, Egypt, (AP) — Egypt announced last night she is cancelling her treaties with Britain in an effort to drive the British out of the Suez canal area and the Sudan.

Prime Minister Mustafa Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdist (nationalist) party, introduced in a cheering Parliament the bills to carry out the cancellations less than a week after British oilmen were forced to leave Iran, another country in the unstable Middle East.

"Long live King Farouk," shouted the deputies.

"From now on King Farouk will be called 'King of Egypt and Sudan'," Nahas Pasha declared.

Egypt "isn't going to wait any longer" for the British to withdraw from the Suez canal zone, he shouted.

The foreign office in London said Britain would refuse to recognize the one-sided cancellation of treaties providing for mutual defense and for joint rule of the Sudan.

The foreign office showed signs of shock that Egypt had acted before receiving new proposals, which Britain promised over the weekend would be forthcoming.

Contractors Prepare To Start Bridge

Delaware Water Gap — Johnson, Drake & Pipher, Inc., winners of a $3,141,335 contract to install substructures for three new Pennsylvania-New Jersey bridges located here, at Portland and at Milford, started yesterday to establish base offices in annex of the Hof Brau Hotel opposite the D. L. & W. railroad station.

Robert Cree, chief engineer for the firm, said construction operations will be started in about two weeks. He said arrival of equipment is all that is needed to get the task of installing 31 piers and two abutments for the 2,500-foot-long bridge extending from here to a point near Kittatinny Beach on the New Jersey side of the river.

Cree noted that the annex of the hotel the firm will use as a base for offices and other operations connected with the local project will have to be razed to make way for part of the construction of the new bridge.

The chief engineer said that contrary to popular belief "a large force of men is not needed to build a bridge." He said a group of highly skilled specialists, and a wide variety of massive equipment are needed and will be utilized.

The chief engineer said that James E. Minnich, Wolmesdorf, Pa., near Reading, Pa., will be general superintendent of the big bridge project here.

Cree said that steel for the structure "will be available when we start the project." He said that while official commencement notice had not yet been received from the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, it is expected within a few days and preliminary work of getting offices and operation schedules set up will be well in hand by that time.

The chief engineer said a railroad siding near the station will be made available to handle shipments of machinery and material.

Work, he said, will be pushed all winter. First phase will involve excavation and driving of pilings for the 31 piers. When water gets too high for work in the river channel, operations will revert to the shore or dry ground pier and substructure installation.

At the same time the Joint Toll Bridge Commission awarded a contract for substructures of all three bridges. It also sold over $15,000,000 worth of bonds to cover costs of complete bridge and approach construction of bridge here, at Portland and Milford, Pike County. The bridge here will have an overall cost of around $8,000,000.

New Jersey Highway department has already earmarked the riverside highway from Columbia to Kittatinny Beach as a "freeway" for a four-lane highway approach to the 2,500-foot bridge leading to this community.

The Pennsylvania end, under an existing approach proposal, involves a sweep through the open field in front of Crossdale Manor and connection with Route 611 on the sweeping curve in that highway near the Water Gap Cemetery.

In the case of the local bridge and the one to be constructed just below Portland with a connection again on Route 611, the highway departments in the two states will be responsible for approaches.

In the case of the bridge extending from Milford to Montague, N. J., both approaches and the bridge will be built by the Commission.

Allied Offensive Defenders Slow

U.S. Eighth Army Hqs., Korea, Tuesday (AP) — Grimly defending Reds slowed the Allied autumn offensive across Korea yesterday with counterattacks and their heaviest artillery fire of the war.

A field dispatch today said the Chinese Reds even had shifted troops and artillery from the west-central front to the west in order to bolster hard-hit forces near Yonchon, more than 35 miles north of Seoul. Only minor Allied gains were scored there yesterday.

In the east, Korean Reds clung fast to the last northern bit of "Heartbreak Ridge." A U.S. Second Division task force battled from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in efforts to push the Reds off the northernmost peak of the saddle ridge. But they failed and pulled back to the Allied main line at nightfall.

The eastern attack was given close support by Allied planes whose pilots reported inflicting heavy Red casualties.

The Reds in the west used artillery at a rate of fire unknown to the Communists since the start of the war. Allied officers said it was equal in volume to concentrations fired by American guns last winter, but didn't come close to Allied firepower now.

Despite a Red barrage of more than 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar shells, it was little over one-tenth the mighty roar of massed American and British guns. Between sun up and sundown, a total of nearly 13,000 rounds of artillery alone—including 105-millimeters and eight-inch Howitzers that gouged out whole Red bunkers at a single blast—fell on enemy positions.

The artillery concentrations were laid down in an area less than 20 miles northeast of Panmunjom. Gen. Matthew D. Ridgway has agreed that this area could be used as a site for new Korean cease-fire talks. Panmunjom itself, a Communist checkpoint, is six miles east of Kaesong where the cease-fire negotiations were broken off by the Reds August 23.

Because of bad weather and the need for close support for struggling infantrymen, there was little unusual activity in the air war Sunday.

In the east, American troops stormed almost to the top of the last northern peak of "Heartbreak Ridge." Before withdrawing, assault forces of the famed 23rd Infantry Regiment of the U. S. Second Division, holders of a presidential unit citation, were within 600 feet on the crest.

They crawled up the crags, blasting their way inch-by-inch in what was literally a fortress assault.

Backing them were tough French infantrymen who joined in the continuing attack a week ago. Together the Americans and French had captured the somewhat higher central peak of Heartbreak on Saturday.

It appeared that, in its fourth week, the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge" was being won. Wider scale attacks to the west and east were drawing off some of the concentrated Communist strength.

Destroyer Small Hits Red Mine; 9 Sailors Die

Washington (AP) — Nine sailors were killed and 18 injured when an American destroyer ran over a "probable enemy mine" Sunday off Korea, the Navy announced last night.

The destroyer, the Ernest G. Small, was able to make Sasebo, Japan, under her own power, the Navy added. No further details were made public. None of the dead lived in Pennsylvania.

Mossadegh Bares Fresh Charges

United Nations, N. Y., (AP) — Exhausted after a long plane ride, Iran's frail Premier Mohammed Mossadegh arrived yesterday with fresh charges that the British want to continue "pillaging" Iran's oil resources.

He immediately went into seclusion on the 16th floor of the New York hospital in preparation for bedside conferences later this week on the British-Iranian oil dispute. He flew from Tehran to present his country's case to the Security Council, which is expected to meet Thursday.

Mossadegh issued a statement at the Idlewild airport in which he recalled to Americans their fight against the British in the war of independence. He said there are great similarities between the present-day efforts of the Iranians and the efforts of American ancestors "to release their homeland from the fetters of economic and political imperialism."

Ridgway Okays Panmunjom As Site Of Talks

Tokyo, Tuesday (AP) — Gen. Matthew D. Ridgway agreed yesterday to the Panmunjom area as a site for fresh Korean cease-fire talks, but disagreed with a Red proposal to extend the old Kaesong neutral zone to include Munsan, site of the Allied truce camp.

Instead, in a brief message to the Chinese and Korean Red commanders, the United Nations commander suggested a small neutral area around Panmunjom, "with Kaesong, Munsan and the roads to Panmunjom from Kaesong and Munsan free from attack."

Panmunjom is a tiny roadside village six miles east of Kaesong and 12 road miles northwest of Munsan.

Ridgway did not mention a further Red proposal that both sides be responsible for policing the neutral zone.

He said he would send his liaison officers to Panmunjom Wednesday at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday, EST), to discuss the details with the Communists.

Court Rejects Reds' Appeal

Washington (AP) — The Supreme court yesterday declined to reconsider its decision against 11 U. S. Communist party leaders but agreed to hear two other major cases affecting Communists' rights.

The leaders, seven of whom now are serving prison sentences, while four are fugitives, were convicted of plotting to teach the violent overthrow of this government. Their lawyers asked the Supreme court to rehear the case and reverse its decision of last June upholding the convictions.

The court did agree to rule on constitutionality of a section of Federal law requiring deportation of aliens for past membership in the Communist party; and whether aliens facing deportation may be held without bail on a finding by the attorney general that they have been active Communists.

The high tribunal took no action on a petition for further consideration to six attorneys for the 11 Red leaders. The attorneys were sentenced to prison on contempt of court charges.

Firemen's Unit Renames Local Man Chairman

The executive committee of the Four County Firemen's association met at the quarters of the Alliance Co., No. 1, of Northampton, when A. F. Everitt, Stroudsburg, was re-elected chairman. There were 30 in attendance, including J. A. Everitt, Stroudsburg, secretary, and F. Jay Snover, East Stroudsburg, first vice president.

The 1952 convention of the organization will be held at Northampton next June and plans are already under way. Raymond K. Ridgers, Northampton, president, told of making visits to companies in the four counties composing the group, in an effort to interest them in the convention and the parade, which is outstanding feature annually.

Announcement was made that Arthur Miller, chief of the Alliance company, had been named co-chairman with President Rodgers in planning the arrangements for the convention. Committees have been named to look after the many details necessary for the entertainment of the visiting firemen and guests.

It is expected the convention sessions will be held at the Northampton High school. Several visiting fire companies have already arranged for headquarters and meals on the day of the parade.

Secretary Everitt reported three deaths in the association since the June convention at Lansford. Death benefits are now $75, having been increased from $60 at the last convention.

The treasurer, Kline S. Wernert, Lansford, reported having invested $500 of association funds in government bonds.

Earl Werkheiser, Wilson Borough, was again given the contract for soliciting the ads for the convention journal. He will designate assistant solicitors in Monroe and Carbon counties, handling Northampton and Lehigh personally.

The Pocono Record, Inc., of Stroudsburg, was designated to handle the printing contract for the coming year, including the convention journal which contains much valuable information and art.

Vice President Snover reported that all the fire companies in Monroe county and several in Pike are affiliated with the Four County organization.

Preceding the business session, the visitors were guests at a country style chicken dinner prepared by the Ladies' auxiliary of the Alliance company.

Announcement was made the Carbon County Firemen's association would sponsor a parade at Northampton on Saturday afternoon of this week. All 20 units in the county are affiliated with the organization.

Camera Club To Add To Membership

At a preliminary meeting, the Pocono Camera club set a tentative schedule for the coming season.

Programs featuring contests, lecturing and shows will be given throughout the year. Persons in the Pocono area who are interested in photography are invited to join the club at its next meeting in East Stroudsburg Junior High school at 7:15 p. m. Wednesday.

Members of the club believe photography to be a medium of artistic expression worthy of inclusion alongside painting, music and others more firmly established by tradition.

Potential members who cannot attend the forthcoming meeting may call Jesse Weiss at 625-W for full details.

U.S. Air Force To Occupy Huge Floating Ice Island

By Louis R. Huber
(Central Press Correspondent)

ELLSMERE AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska—Huge floating island of ice hundreds of feet thick have been discovered in the Arctic ocean by the United States Air Force.

One of them will be occupied next summer as a semi-permanent camp, according to plans announced by Maj. Gen. William D. Olds, commanding officer of the Alaskan Air Command.

Discovered on flights over the North Pole by Boeing B-29s of the 38th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron, based here, the ice islands have been photographed and studied carefully.

"There can be no question but that these 'floating islands' can afford safe, stable platforms on which semi-permanent camps can be established," says Lt. Col. Joseph O. Fletcher, commanding officer of the 38th.

Origin of these huge floes is thought to be the glacial fringe of Ellesmere island, one of the far-north Canadian land masses.

"Supplies can be transported to the ice islands either by aircraft or submarine. Smoothing off of suitable runways for aircraft operation should be relatively easy," Air Force officers say.

DRIFTING slowly in the pack ice that surrounds them, the big ice floes circulate in a clockwise direction—southward from Ellesmere island toward Alaska, then westward along Alaska's Arctic coast, and northward again to the pole.

Now and then, it is believed, one of the huge floes may drift southward between Iceland and Greenland, into the Atlantic ocean.

Polar explorers of previous years have found extremely-thick ice floes in the Arctic, but they never ascertained the fact that they float about. Similar floes are common in the Antarctic, authorities say.

Steel Plates Placed Across Holes In Jail

Minor repairs were made yesterday at Monroe county jail.

Workmen fastened a steel plate across the hole chopped in the floor of the jail attic by prisoners who attempted an escape a few weeks ago.

Another steel plate was fastened over a hole made in one of the metal screens at the rear of the jail, made by a prisoner trying to break jail a few years ago.

The Monroe county grand jury last month recommended re-pointing of stone work, repair of the jail roof, placing of bars over one attic window, and hiring of a jail architect to determine whether the jail should be rebuilt or remodeled.

County Commissioners H. D. Kresge, Granville Shiffer and W. L. Quick would have to initiate the action on the grand jury's recommendations.

Commissioner Kresge said yesterday the matter had not been brought up since the jury dissolved.

course trips to and from the North Pole.

IN SUMMER the ice islands are characterized by what appear to be long cracks, but which actually are streams of water 200 to 300 feet wide and 12 to 15 miles long!

Engineering studies of these drainage systems reveal that one edge of an ice island is thicker than the other edges, making the high side perhaps 100 feet higher than the lowest.

Total thickness of the ice islands, it is estimated, may be more than 240 feet. The crushing action of pack ice, resulting from the forces of wind, tide and currents, has no effect on the ice islands.

The annual decrease in thickness of the big floes, due to melting in the summer, is put at two to three feet.

With more than 500 trips to the North Pole already chalked up—they began making them in 1947—the B-29 crews have three ice islands spotted.

They are looking for more.

"They may come in pretty handy some day," said one B-29 crewman.

Four Fire Companies Cooperate In Staging Demonstration

'Major Blaze' Extinguished By Firemen

The moon-faced clock over the Fenner building showed 6:45 p.m. Residents in surrounding East Stroudsburg apartments were finishing their dinners, windows closed against the cold.

A frigid wind hurried a few over-coated pedestrians along Crystal St. The night was quiet, snappy. Wooden horses blocked off Washington St. at S. Courtland. Moving along the sidewalk was Officer Louis Caramella, in full-dress dark blues.

At 6:47 a truck pulled up at the railroad station's freight building. A crew pulled out loudspeaker equipment, hitched it up to sockets in the Fenner building.

Magically a few dozen small boys appeared and scrambled for choice spots opposite on the freight platform eight feet off the ground. Harold Albert, member of the Stroud township fire department and its board of supervisors, began testing the microphone.

"Can you hear this?" came his voice through the loudspeakers.

"We can hear ya" came the shrill chorus from the loading platform.

Adults began to cluster on the sidewalk in front of the Fenner building. A car pulled into the last parking space open. Its occupant left motor running and heater going to keep warm.

"You're going to see a demonstration . . ." said Albert's voice from the loudspeaker. He went on, explaining to the growing number of spectators just how East Stroudsburg, Stroudsburg and Stroud township fire companies were going to arrive, ladder the building, and go through the motions of putting out a major blaze.

The Fenner building clock tolled a solemn 7.

" . . . and now you're going to hear Box 12, which will designate a fire at the Fenner building here, and then . . ."

At four minutes past seven the deep honking blast of the fire alarm sounded off over the rooftops. Before it stopped, the whine of sirens rose like an answer from the fire house a few blocks away. Abruptly East Stroudsburg's five fire trucks were spearing in from the post office and the railroad overpass to the west with red lights flashing.

The volunteers, in green coveralls, uniforms, hatless, dropped bent-kneed from the trucks to the road. Ribbons of hose unrolled over the paving, were fastened to hydrants. Ladders were slid off the trucks, toted to the sidewalk, rooted on the pavement and hoisted against the front of the building.

In one of the apartments a shade snapped up. A startled woman peered out just in time to see a fireman swarming up the shiny ladder outside her second-story window pane.

In the street opposite the aluminum portico of the building, another fireman threw black-painted blocks under the wheels of the aerial truck.

Up on the turret a crew clustered over the controls; the long section of metal ladder lifted from its horizontal bed, angled into the cold sky, arced in toward the roof four stories up.

Before it touched the building the volunteers were going up its rungs.

The rows of spectators across the street were already standing eight and ten deep in a packed line stretching from a point west of Washington St., east past the ticket office.

" . . . and now, there being more life hazard than East Stroudsburg fire company can guard against, an alarm has been sent to . . ." came the loudspeaker's buzzing metallic voice.

At 7:15, a mile westward, came the whine of new sirens as Stroudsburg's fire trucks wailed along in the brisk night air to lend a hand to the sister borough.

"Get back now — get back — be careful . . ." warned the loud speaker as the trucks flashed past the lower end of Washington St., ran the square past the post office and came down Crystal toward the crowd.

"Despite the absence of smoke, water spray, flames, the presence of the giant vehicles seemed to turn the crowd's mood to one half tension, half festival, as the spotlight played across the building's face, washed over the ladders, glanced off the blank squares of darkened windows.

" . . . let's hope they never need it," a woman said to her friend.

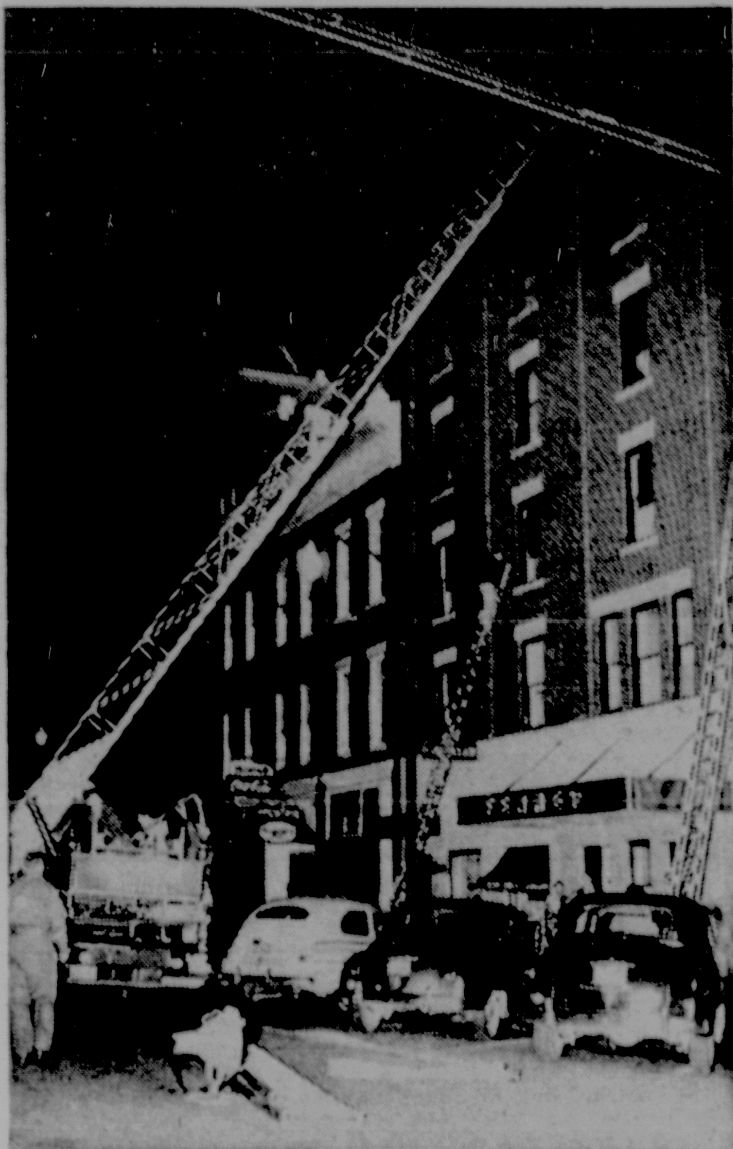

"Lord knows!"

"But it's nice to know they have it."

"Lord knows!"

Stroudsburg's aerial was lancing upward on the Silverman building on the east side of Washington St. Albert's voice over the loudspeaker was inaudible there, but chunks of the crowd of more than a thousand broke off and swarmed down the sidewalks to watch.

The Stroudsburg company's aerial ladder was no pushbutton affair. Two volunteers stood in their black slickers and helmets on the white truck, cranking the control wheel madly to shove the ladder up toward the roof. Over on Crystal St., the Stroud

Fire Drill Empties School In Slightly Over Minute

It was just after 1 p. m.; classes had begun and the ball game was in full swing when the fire bell rang.

Students at East Stroudsburg High school calmly folded papers, closed books, rose from their desks and filed out into the halls. In the auditorium the dozen and a half young men who had stopped to catch a camera-eye view of the series turned away from the new TV set mounted on the stage and filed down the stairs. On the opposite side of the building younger members of the public school moved in a crooked queue of bobbing pigtails and regimented shoulders to their allotted position behind the building.

Once out on the driveway, the talk turned to the topics of the day—baseball, themes for English classes and teachers. Two boys started a quiet argument with a third over an umpire's decision in the first inning. By the time the township fire company was arriving. They swung into the alley, broke out ladders and hose, went up the back of the Fenner building.

Awed by the sudden hubbub, the glare of 500-watt floodlights, a tot in woolen sleepers pressed her nose to the glass and gaped down at the volunteers scurrying under her second-story window.

Last siren to sound along the jammed street came with the arrival of Tobyhanna Township Volunteer Fire Co. No. 1's ambulance from Pocono Lake.

The ambulance backed in to the sidewalk. Two white-coated members of the 16-man volunteer corps of drivers sprang down, broke out the stretcher, loaded an "injured" man on it, shoved the stretcher into the ambulance.

The "fire" at the Fenner and Silverman buildings was on its last legs. It had been theoretically drenched, sprayed, squashed, quelled, doused with chemicals and thoroughly beaten.

Hose began coiling back toward the trucks. Ladders shrank down to carrying size and went flat on their truck bodies. Volunteers of the three companies clicked equipment back into place with the smooth precision of countless real and practice drills, climbed onto the trucks.

Around the corner, small boys imbued with the fire-fighting spirit were still sliding down the iron rail of a bannister leading down to a Silverman building store below street level.

As the trucks began to roll, volunteers focused their spotlights playfully on the face of a pretty flaxen-haired girl watching from a Fenner building window.

Wolf whistles mingled with the sound of receding sirens. The girl blinked in the glare, stayed gamely where she was and smiled down at the fire-fighters.

Then the last trucks muttered off in low gear. The crowd dissolved. Cars pulled out of parking spaces and vanished.

At 8:15 Crystal St., was clear, cold, deserted.

Parcel Post Bill Clears U. S. House

Washington (AP)—The House passed by voice vote yesterday a bill to reduce the size and weight limits on packages that may be sent through parcel post.

The bill goes back to the Senate, which passed a similar measure last month.

As passed by the House, it affects only parcels handled only by first-class postoffices—those in larger cities. The Senate proposed that the smaller sizes apply to packages handled only by first and second class offices.

Also exempted are parcels mailed to or from Army and Navy post-offices and to or from postoffices in territories or possessions, including the Canal Zone.

The latter exemptions are in the House bill only.

Both bills exempt from the new limitations parcels containing baby chickens, live plants, trees, shrubs or agricultural commodities, and books containing no advertising matter.

The House bill differs from the Senate-passed version by exempting parcels shipped through small-town second class postoffices, as well as third and fourth class offices.

The intent of the exemptions is to provide unchanged service to rural customers not served by commercial express agencies.

Rep. Burnside (D-W. Va.) said the Railway Express agency is losing $10,000,000 a year in business, while parcel post is running a post-office deficit of around 13 cents a package.

The present maximum size of 100 inches in length and girth combined, and 70 pounds in weight, would be cut to 72 inches and 40 pounds.

The 40-pound limit would apply only to first two mail zones. The maximum weight would be cut further to 20 pounds in the third to eight zones.

Storm Baby Born With Two Teeth
A new baby in the house is always cause for excitement and extra visitors but the Walter Storms, East Stroudsburg RD2, have an added attraction in their newly-arrived son.

When eight-pound-three-ounce Keith Ernest Storm was born October 4 he was the proud possessor of two teeth.

Although prenatal formation of teeth in the child is not unheard of it is still sufficiently unusual to arouse the curiosity and interest of numerous visitors. According to Dr. Nina Price, the physician in attendance at the time of the birth, this is the third such child she has delivered since 1907.

News for Harrisburg

The Legislature and Governor of South Dakota have broken the rules by which most public officials abide. South Dakota has cut taxes.

Not only did that State just recently reduce the rates on two levies, but four taxes were pitched out entirely. And they did not install new money-raising schemes to replace the old ones.

All this took place while Legislatures of 44 states this year considered almost 1000 new ways to sock their taxpayers. We don't have the figures yet on how many of those bills passed, but the fact that they were talked over is alarming enough.

The South Dakota general sales tax and auto registration levy were pared down one cent on the dollar. Three per cent taxes on beer, liquor and cigarettes and a two-mill levy on property have been done away with.

These were all known as "temporary" taxes, passed to pay for a veterans' bonus. Most of the bonus bonds have been paid off, so South Dakota did the unusual.

Instead of finding new ways in which to spend the money raised by those taxes, the wise lawmakers abolished the taxes.

This is such a common sense, but highly unusual, course that we want to pass it on to Harrisburg. And any other tax writers who may be listening.

Pennsylvania has been saddled with "emergency" and "temporary" taxes since 1935. A few that didn't bring in much money, have been abolished. The rest of those "temporary" taxes seem to have become permanent.

They have produced as much as $310,000,000 every two years which is one reason our State hangs onto them.

We fear that the "emergency" tax of $5 on each $1000 income would stay on the books if the Legislature makes the mistake of adopting it when members reassemble Dec. 10.

Instead of dumping the income tax on us, the Legislature should look to South Dakota. And then cut some of the fat from Governor Fine's budget, as outlined by Senators Montgomery F. Crowe, John M. Walker, Elmer J. Holland and others.

A few more "temporary" taxes and Pennsylvania taxpayers will be permanently disabled.

Our Only Recourse

Two years ago when President Truman first announced Russia had the A-bomb, the first reaction of Americans was that there must be some international agreement which would prevent a mad race for atomic weapons.

Voicing this sentiment, the President promptly went before the United Nations and sought to rally world opinion to compel Russia to adopt the Baruch plan.

This proposal, first submitted by Bernard M. Baruch in June, 1946, called for an international body to control atomic energy activities dangerous to the very existence of civilization. The control body would have the power to inspect and license all atomic activities.

Russia has consistently rejected any such plan from the outset.

Now we know, from a recent announcement, that Russia has been stockpiling A-bombs for at least two years.

And now we know, from her other acts of aggression over the past two years, that it is useless ever again to appeal to any sense of decency or humanitarian impulse in the Kremlin.

It is dreadful to contemplate, but we have no other recourse than to continue our own atomic build-up as the one remaining hope that our strength will be the ultimate deterrent to the atomic war that only Russia would start.

The North American Indians are believed to be among the few primitive peoples who did not refine iron, despite the rich iron ore deposits of the land.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Some big league baseball players hold out every spring because they think they rate higher pay; others merely hope to avoid the ardors of early-season workouts. But an old Athletics catch-up named Schreckengost pulled a new one some years back; he refused to sign a contract until a clause was inserted prohibiting his eccentric buddy and battery mate, Rube Waddell, from eating crackers in bed!

Comes opening day of the regular season, all the stubborn holdouts are safely in the fold. As the famous umpire, Bill Klem, pointed out, "You can't beat those hours!"

A dealer in precious books informed his dentist, "Doctor, if the volumes in your library are half as old as the magazines in your waiting room, I'll undertake to make you a millionaire over night!"

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — Several people have asked if Ava Gardner sang in her own voice in "Show Boat." Chap in a position to know says she did and she didn't, thus: On "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," it was a dubbed-in voice to which Ava matched her mouth movements. On "My Bill," it was her own pipes. The first ballad, my tipster explains, required more voice.

A prop on the wall of Jane Russell's room in "Son of Paleface" is a photo of a man, supposedly some member of her family. Well, it really is — her football-playing husband, Bob Waterfield. . . . Cynical sign noted on a prop-suitcase box on a Paramount sound stage: "Stop and think. There must be a harder way." . . .

Hugh Marlowe thinks his magnificent speaking voice is from rendering lots of Shakespeare on the stage. "My voice is four octaves below my twin brother's," he claimed between takes of "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie." . . .

Mickey Rooney cocky and difficult? Anything but, cries director Richard Quine, 31, ex-actor who has known The Mick since they were both 6. "The quickest, most cooperative guy I ever worked with. He's bursting with talent. Given the right material, he can be, one day, another Chaplin."

"They tried to make a pint-sized Cagney out of him — a tough two-listed leading man, which he's not. Basically, he's a comedian, And Mike" — as Quine calls Mickey — "is nice people."

Incidentally, Rooney wrote the words and music to two songs he sings in "Sound Off," which Quine is directing. . . .

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Hoover's Autobiography

The first volume of Herbert Hoover's autobiography is to be published about the middle of this month. I am not jumping the gun in respect to the publication date; that apparently is a grave sin. However, the book recalled to me our first correspondence.

Throughout the years of my residence in China, I treasured the friendship of Tong Shao-Yi, an elderly gentleman of cultured habits who had been in the highest offices under the Dowager empress as well as during the early years of the republic. Tong Shao-Yi had been like a father to me and I respected him as though I were, in truth, his son.

It was the Tong family that was interested in the coal mines in North China where Herbert Hoover was employed as a young engineer, and his enemies, even now, try to give the impression that there was something wrong about it.

In fact, in January, 1920, two Americans came to China to discover whether there was any basis for the stories about Mr. Hoover stealing mines from the Chinese. They represented themselves as having been sent by the Republican party.

Old Tong Shao-Yi thought that his friend, Herbert Hoover, was in some kind of peril and he asked me to write a letter telling of this sleuthing. I did so on January 17, 1920 and I have the letter before me now.

Tong Shao-Yi told his visitors that nobody stole those mines because the Chinese still have them. Instead he recounted how the young engineer organized to feed the Chinese of Tientsin during the Boxer rebellion. I quote from my letter:

"... Mr. Tong then expressed great gratitude for what had been done twenty years ago. . . . He told the story of the vase which you took as a memento of those terrible days in Tientsin. Mr. Tong wondered whether you still have the vase which you took from his house not as loot but as a remembrance."

The years past and 1928 approaches. This time the Democrats send a delegation to get the dirt on Herbert Hoover. And the more these men dig, the more the arrows point toward Tong Shao-Yi. Finally, they are advised to see me and I take them to this aged Mandarin who sits among the most beautiful Chinese porcelain every afternoon, drinking coffee which he prepares in his own fashion, and it all is so exotic and incongruous to listen to him discourse almost intimately on American politics, robed in beautiful brocades. So these Democrats want to know about the stolen mines and Tong tells them of the genius of the young engineer and how Hoover foretold the Chinese revolution almost a decade before it happened in a report to the Viceroy Li Hung-Chang, who would not believe him.

This time, I was again designated to write Mr. Hoover, reporting the incident, but that letter I do not now find. Mr. Tong, in due course, gave a press interview on the perfection of these mines. Subsequently, the entire story was told in detail by B. W. Fleisher in the "Japan Advertiser" and by George Bronson Rea in the "Far Eastern Review."

Tong Shao-Yi must have been in his eighties when he was assassinated for saying that the Chinese were unwise to be at war with the Japanese, as such a war would ultimately hand China over to Soviet Russia — a frightfulness that actually came to pass, as we now all know.

Two years or so before his death, in 1930, when I was returning to the United States for the first time in 13 years, he asked me to call on Mr. Hoover in the White House to say that if these stories troubled the President, he, Tong, would come to America to speak on Mr. Hoover's behalf, to tell of all his wonderful performances in China. And this I did.

It was an amazingly unbelievable visit to the White House. There sat a President beset by a thousand worries, for the depression had already become a nightmare. He recalled men in China who had made their mark and passed on, and some were still alive. And I know that Mrs. Hoover, then a young bride, had learned the Chinese language and loved the blue and white porcelains which are most beautiful when made in Chingtehchen in the province of Kiangsi. I almost felt that he envied my living so long among a nation so mature that they have a sixth sense for quality in man and thing.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Santa With a Diploma — A man who died at 74 the other day and left an estate of $156,445 to Williams College was found to have been a college grad and department store Santa Claus. It seems to this department that this is something out of O. Henry. How many thousands of adult Christmas shoppers passed him, feeling a little sorry for him as just another old man forced to take a part-time job? How many sized up his general appearance and thought "He's not the type"? How many skeptical kiddies asked scornfully, "Aw, there ain't no Santa Claus!" Yet here was apparently a real Kris Kringle. How he must have chuckled as he realized that the last thing anybody in the shopping crowds suspected was that he was a college man, an alumnus of a great university, a fellow who could open a stable of reindeers with the keys to a safety deposit box.

His name was Burrill Finch Prudden and he played the department store Santa role just to have something to do. He left most of his money to his alma mater to help deserving students. Prudden is described as a genial gentleman who never got many breaks in life, worked hard and managed to get his pile through careful investments over many years. And in his seventies nothing gave him the satisfaction that came to him during the Yuletide as he played Santa in the big department store and made kiddies a little happier. Whether he was ever voted "Most likely to succeed" in his college days has not been looked into, but he might well have been. Did any of his classmates know a greater success? After all, a department store Santa can win the love of countless children, and an adoration found in few other occupations.

There are thousands of college graduates who know high achievement. Some can create an atomic force capable of leveling a city. But they go through life never knowing the power to put a glow into the eyes of a city's small fry. Some can build a major industry, replete with roaring factories, mills, docks, railroad sidings and accounting houses. But have they ever mastered the secret of a smile or gesture that brings jingle bells to the ears of the young or produces a new star in the eastern sky?

Among the classmates of this man there may have been boys who went on to become top bankers, great editors, or powerful statesmen. But did they ever make hordes of children hear a pawing of reindeer hooves on the roof? Did they ever show any ability to make the Holy Night a glistening thing? Was there among them another man who could make "visions of sugar plums dance in their heads"?

In any class in any college there are those who go forward to scale the heights, achieve great prestige, make fortunes and build mightily in one way or another. From one man comes a drama, a great novel, beautiful verse; from another a marvelous invention, a miracle drug, wide public service, fine paintings or an annual statement reporting "record earnings which will make possible an increase in the dividend." But how many kids have looked at them and seen:

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fall,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the housetop the couriers they flew,
With a sleigh full of toys, and Saint Nicholas, too.

We feel a little different about department store and street corner Kris Kringles now. And also about those college student balladings on "the most likely to succeed."

The Yanks should never have been extended. They were just playing the survivors of a two-car collision. . . . "Russia Accuses U. S. of Double Talk" — headline. That's an appraisal by experts. . . . The U. N. has found that its New York quarters will cost more than expected. Ya mean it couldn't even foresee anything as certain as that!!! It is predicted that cars will soon have radar to see around corners and detect a vehicle ahead. This, we take it, will provide hot-rod drivers with precision aim. . . . Banks are urging the people to turn in small coins now in piggy banks. They don't seem to realize that Roosevelt made those things obsolete years ago.

Last Chance — The series ends in autumn's fire. And second guessers now retire!

That recent Argentine revolution went over so poorly Peron may have to write a new script for his next one.

Vanishing Americanisms — "Do you waltz?" "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves." "Where can I find some excitement?"

"Hy - poe-ri-sy. Act or practice of feigning to be what one is not, or to feel what one does not feel; esp. the false assumption of an appearance of virtue or religion; canting simulation of goodness.—Ant. Sincerity."

—Webster's Coll. Dictionary
"Government to Tax Bookies."

A Newspaper headline. It seems almost impossible to wipe out gambling and drinking.

Every day the newspapers are full of stories about investigations, prosecutions and hifalutin' speeches made in clubs, churches and all sorts of meetings.

But they don't seem to have much effect.

Gambling goes on. "Drinking goes on."

Why? HYPOCRISY.

We want to stamp out evil, yet we practice it.

The very government that raises such a hue and cry about gambling now wants to tax the gamblers, thereby making gambling official and legitimate.

Unquestionably the revenue from taxing the gamblers would be enormous.

Do you think for a moment that our government is going to be very thorough about prosecuting the very gamblers from whom it derives such a revenue?

The pari-mutuel betting system at our racetracks makes it possible for our race tracks to operate, and the government gets a swell income out of these operations.

Is THAT going to be cut out? You may furnish the answer yourself.

County Notes Further Drop In DPA Rolls

Figures released yesterday by the Department of Public Assistance indicate a continued decline in persons on the public assistance rolls in Monroe county and throughout the state.

A total decrease of 2,266 persons was noted for the second half of September. Since the beginning of 1951 the rolls have dropped from a total of 334,355 to 264,747, a decrease of 69,608 or nearly 21 per cent in the nine-month period.

In Monroe county the total number of persons dependent upon public assistance now stands at 762 or 2.3 per cent of the population. This total is divided into the following categories: General assistance—79; old-age assistance—362; aid to dependent children—234; aid to disabled 41; aid to the blind—46.

Number of cases dependent on public assistance in Monroe county totals 540.

This total is divided into the following subheadings by the department: general assistance—44; old-age assistance—349; aid to dependent children—62; aid to disabled—39; blind pensions—46.

The continued decline in public dependency is due to a high level of employment throughout the state, according to the department.

New Officers To Preside At PTA Meeting

The first regular meeting of the Tohyanna Township PTA will be held on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. The meeting will be in charge of the newly elected officers and matters relative to the annual program will be discussed.

A question and answer period will be held with the school faculty so that the parents will be better able to know what goes on in the school.

Following the meeting, the school faculty will serve refreshments and a social period will follow. All members are urged to attend.

David Turner New President Of Onawa Rifle Club At SHS

The Onawa Rifle club, Stroudsburg High school affiliate of the National Rifle association, has elected officers for the year.

New officers are: President, David Turner; vice president, John Ifft; treasurer, Eugene Anglemeyer; secretary, John Dennis and sergeant-at-arms, James Ifft. Turner, president of the club, is a member of the senior class and a three-year member of the club.

Club meetings are held every Tuesday with a regular discussion of business preceding a practice shoot in the club's indoor range. The range, located in the basement of the school, is a modern, scientifically-equipped room located in the school basement. Accommodating five men at a time, the targets are manned by remote control with each person in charge of his own target.

New members are in the process of orientation. During this highly important period, each new member is placed under the direct supervision of another, older and more experienced rifleman. With all safety precautions in constant observance, accidents due to inept handling of the rifle are held at a minimum.

Part of the club activity is devoted to field trips. Last week 16 members of the club participated in a clay pigeon shoot at the farm home of David Turner, Stroudsburg RD 3.

Total membership for the year now stands at 25. The club is under the direction of H. H. Woodley.

Adam Evans has been discharged from the same hospital.

Miss Jessie Delp of Pottstown spent the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. Floyd Delp Sr. and family.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well the women sure were fixed up "for fancy," as Dr. Frey would say, for the opening luncheon of the Woman's Club yesterday. Mink and velvets and new fall outfits that looked like the fashion illustrations—m-m-m.

Anyway it was a hilarious meeting, bright as the "hex" barn signs which ringed the wall. Incidentally, Janet Lloyd and Ann Travis painted so many of those signs, that with Joe Shane to do the outlines for them, they're all set to go out and paint them on barns, I'll bet.

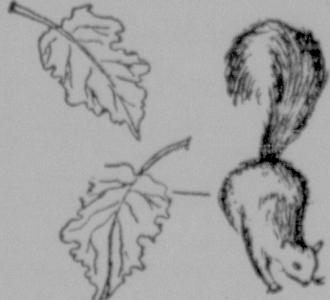

Dr. Frey is an authority on that sort of thing, and I wish I could have seen him at the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival with a big red beard.

Wasn't all laughter, though, since Virginia Robinson as new president was quite in earnest about this voting business. They're going to have a bulletin board to post the little ballot stubs proving how many voted.

The only people I envied were the women who understood Pennsylvania Dutch. They always translated them. Well, anyway it was a grand start to what looks like a very big year.

Though what two luncheons in two days is going to do to the members' diets, I can't imagine. They're due up at Matamoras today, remember.

SAM Chapter To Entertain Bosses

The October dinner meeting to be held at Howard Johnson's restaurant, Allentown, at 6:30 p. m. today has been designated as "Top Management night" by the Allentown chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management.

William Jacko, industrial engineer for the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, will speak on "The Union's Viewpoint on Incentives" and the impact of incentives on management-labor relations.

Chest Drive Workers To Give Reports

Community Chest campaign leaders said yesterday that it is imperative that every worker attend the first report meeting at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Penn-Stroud hotel prepared to file a report on their work.

"The results of solicitations in every division are vital to the campaign strategy during the closing period," William S. Wyckoff, campaign chairman said last night. "Right now we have no accurate idea of how much money has been raised towards the big goal of the 1951 campaign and it is of utmost importance that we receive returns Wednesday night," he added.

Both Mr. Wyckoff and Jesse Flory, president of the Chest, agreed that very encouraging activity had been recorded in campaign work to date in a number of divisions. The house-to-house, which is just gaining momentum, has not had an opportunity to show any trend.

Industrial and resort have held the spotlight up to this time, but some excellent reports are anticipated from other quarters tomorrow night.

The dinner to be served workers is a gift from Gerald P. O'Neill, owner of the Penn-Stroud hotel. Neither the chest or its workers will have to pay anything for their meal.

Central Labor Union Forms Education Committee, Hears Report On Political Action

Central Labor Union of Monroe county has established a special labor education committee charged with developing a program of information and instruction regarding the union labor movement for dissemination through suitable channels.

John Farley, president of the American Federation of Labor affiliated Central union body, appointed Walter Arnold, Paul Dellaria and Charles T. Berger to the special committee.

Mr. Arnold, reporting for the political action committee, said 807 persons had registered during the recent registration period for voting at November general election. There were 463 Democrats, 323 Republicans and 18 non-partisans.

Arnold said James McDevitt, president of Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, has been elected to direct labor's league for political action succeeding Joseph Keenan, resigned. Mr. McDevitt will work out of AFL headquarters, Washington, D. C.

A report on Senate Bill 615, introduced by Robinson and Dent to provide new weight limits for trucks, was made by Arnold.

Delegates studied a report from Pennsylvania Federation on new provisions of Pennsylvania unemployment compensation law prepared by Department of Labor and Industry. Included are provisions for increase in benefit rates and maximum and minimum benefit weeks.

friends and called for elimination of discrimination in every form of labor union policy. Berger noted that labor leaders were berated for believing they could have a two-faced conscience—one for private life and one for business life. Berger said labor was praised for the effective way it handled the internal threat of Communism.

A report from the AFL advised that the official magazine, American Federationist, does not solicit advertising. The report warned attempts are being made by unknowns to collect advertising funds under the guise of AFL.

Delegates decided to increase the per capita tax, but the amount of increase was left open until a meeting on November 4.

Life of Riley

Although the talk in all sections of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg currently deals with Friday's football "Battle of the Boroughs" or the World Series now entering its fifth game, this column will delay comment on both events by jumping from one short item to another that deserves mention because of at least some local angle. However, nothing that can be said will ever detract from the football excitement that is hovering over both boroughs at this date.

First on the list of interesting items is the fact that Brookville High school, coached by South Stroudsburg's own Ben Jones, is sporting a record of three victories and one setback. All the wins are against Southern Seven Football Conference foes, while the loss was to a non-league rival, Jones is a graduate of Stroudsburg High school and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and also served as a trainer for the Stroudsburg Poconos, when the North Atlantic league was still in an active status.

Speaking of training brings to mind the fact that Jones brought down special praise in the Brookville American, the town's only newspaper, for the remarkably good condition of his players. The Brookville gridders have been put on a 12-month a year training program and according to Bill Kelen, who wrote the article, the Red Raiders have lived up to the rules set up by their coach, who has been remarkably successful in his short time in the business. Ben is currently studying for his doctor's degree at New York University during the summer months.

John Grodzicki, former major league pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, visited Del Davis at Delaware Water Gap the other day. Davis is an assistant football manager at East Stroudsburg High school. Grodzicki is the fellow of whom the Cardinals expected so much, before he was wounded in World War II. John's damaged leg, plus a brace, wouldn't allow the big right hander to resume his major league status after his discharge from the army. Grodzicki pitched with Winston-Salem, of the class "B" Carolina league last summer, the same team that featured George Cindrick in a 20-game winning role. Cindrick, formerly pitched with the Poconos and is now a resident of Tannersville.

The fact that all three games involving local grid machines were played at home this weekend didn't hurt the crowds too much as the games were well staged. Stroudsburg High played Friday night, ESSTC was in action on Saturday afternoon and East Stroudsburg High went through its paces on Saturday night. Only the college played before a small crowd, with East Stroudsburg High seeing action before one of its biggest followings of the present campaign.

Pennsylvania Military College worked out on Normal Hill last Friday afternoon, before finishing its journey to Scranton, where PMC took it on the chin at the hands of the University of Scranton last Saturday. Billy Long, one of the most popular players to ever wear a uniform of the Stroudsburg Poconos, posed for a picture with Mel Parnell, ace left handed pitcher with the Boston Red Sox, on the final Saturday of the 1951 season at Yankee Stadium. Long and Parnell played ball together at Camp Gordon, Augusta, Ga., during the second World War.

Fred "Benny" Leonard, Pen Argyl grid mentor, was the most surprised person at Gordon Giffels field last Friday, he admits, as his forces ran over the Mountaineers of Stroudsburg High, 25-7. Leonard was particularly pleased with the play of Dick Smith, a tackle, who played almost the entire game, although he had never been in a varsity contest prior to that encounter. Smith, a sophomore, was pressed into service when a wave of injuries virtually swept all of the tackles off the green and white clad squad.

Danny Eppley, former East Stroudsburg High basketball and baseball star and first baseman for Pocono A. C. last season, became the proud papa of a baby girl at the Monroe County General Hospital yesterday. Speaking of the General Hospital brings to mind the fact that George Hartshorn was discharged from his sick bed yesterday. George is a former baseball and basketball standout at Pocono High school.

Frank Minch, assistant golf pro at Shawnee, was pressed into service as the umpire at the Stroudsburg-Pen Argyl junior varsity football game at Gordon Giffels field yesterday, much to his surprise. However, the young Californian came through with flying colors. Minch, assistant pro at the same course during the past summer, arrived back in Mare Island, near San Francisco, he has informed friends in this area. Although at Shawnee only one season, Ross holds the low competitive course record, a 66 tabulation earned in a pro-member tournament.

Spirit Listed As Important Factor In Friday's Tilt

Rival High Schools Free From Injuries

Spirit is apparently the key to success in the football version of the "Battle of the Boroughs," at least that is the feeling in the respective camps during the pre-game drill sessions. The annual meeting of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools on the gridiron will take place at Gordon Giffels field on Friday, at 8 p.m.

Both teams are reported to be in good physical condition, Stroudsburg emerging from the Pen Argyl contest and East Stroudsburg finishing the Lehighton battle without any serious physical damage.

However, Coach Jerry Stulgaitis last night was plainly worried over the mental condition of his Stroudsburg charges, after suffering a 25-7 setback at the hands of Pen Argyl last Friday night.

"If our club is up for this game it will be a terrific football battle," Stulgaitis said. "East Stroudsburg has its best team this year, featuring a strong backfield," the Stroudsburg mentor added.

On the other side of the big bridge Coach Jack Kist was warning his eleven that past records mean absolutely nothing in a game of this type, and that Stroudsburg would be out to continue its domination of the inter-borough rivalry.

"The team that makes and takes advantage of its own breaks will win," Kist said, adding "line play will be the deciding factor in the season's biggest game for the two squads." Kist also announced that the spirit in the East Stroudsburg camp is better than it has been at anytime during the past four years.

Jack Sommers suffered a broken front tooth in the Lehighton scrap, but will be ready, willing and able for Friday's big clash. However, the possibility of Carl Smith resuming his first string guard post is still doubtful. Smith suffered a badly sprained ankle late in the Bangor tussle.

Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager at Stroudsburg High, announced last night that tickets for the "Battle of the Boroughs" are now on sale, at one dollar for adults and 35 cents for students.

Stroudsburg fans may purchase their postcards at Wyckoff-Seak, Flagler's Drug Store and DeVivo's Shoe Repair. East Stroudsburg supporters may pick up their tickets at Kresge's Drug Store and the Laniz Store. Students may buy their entry blanks at the respective schools.

Denver Griddier Draws Disability

Denver (AP)—Disability pay for a former Denver University football player, who claimed he had been hurt in practice, was ordered yesterday by a referee for the Colorado Intercollegiate Commission.

Referee David F. Howe said Ernest Nemeth, 24, of East Chicago, Ind., should be paid $13 weekly from June 12, 1950 until his current partial disability is ended.

Howe ruled the payments should be made by the University's insurance representative, the London Guaranty and Accident Company. He based his ruling on evidence obtained at a hearing called after Nemeth submitted a claim to the commission.

The odds makers also give the Yankees an edge in today's game. It takes $12.50 to win $10 on the Yanks, while $10 will win $11.50 if the Giants take the game.

Today's odds are based on the assumption Pitcher Eddie Lopat of the Yanks starts against Giant hurler Larry Jansen.

Hornsby Receives Fifth Pilot Chance

Hornsby Signs Three-Year Pact To Lead Browns Second Time

New York (AP)—Rogers Hornsby yesterday signed a three-year contract as manager of the St. Louis Browns and immediately declared "there'll be some changes made."

And one of the many changes will be "no more clowning."

"I take my baseball seriously and if my club is getting beat, I don't want anybody laughing at some clown," said Hornsby.

Hornsby, one of baseball's greatest hitters a quarter of a century ago, was non-committal about the likelihood of trading Ned Garver, the Browns' 20-game winning pitcher. Garver is considered the only Brownie who would attract big offers from other clubs. All of the leading American league clubs would give plenty for him.

"Maybe we don't have much other trading material," said the Rajah, "but maybe the other clubs don't either. We'll do the best we can and I guarantee we'll play interesting baseball."

This will be Hornsby's second term as boss of the St. Louis Browns, his last big league managers job. He piloted the Browns from 1933 through part of 1937. He guided Seattle to the Pacific Coast league pennant during the last season.

Good Luck
Before going to Seattle last winter, Hornsby, a member of baseball's hall of fame, managed the Beaumont club to a Texas league pennant in 1936. He was a television commentator for the Chicago Cubs in 1949 and operated a baseball school for the Chicago Daily News for four years.

Hornsby reportedly has had several big league offers. Bill Veeck, new owner of the Browns has been after him for some time.

"He'll be in complete charge of the club," said Veeck. "He's the man I wanted all along and I waited six months to get his signature on a contract."

One of baseball's all-time greats, Hornsby, a second baseman, has been with the St. Louis Cards, the New York Giants, and Chicago Cubs as well as the Browns. He was player-manager of the Cards in 1925 and in 1926 led the Cards to the pennant.

He began his major league career in 1915, won the National league batting title six times in a row, and hit an amazing .424 in 1924.

Hornsby succeeds Zach Taylor as manager.

Lions Win Second

Detroit (AP)—Pass-catching Doak Walker, the prize package from Southern Methodist, sparked the Detroit Lions to a 37 to 10 victory over the New York Yanks last night, as the Lions remained the only unbeaten team in the NFL's National Conference.

Return Uniforms

All uniforms used by the Pocono A. C. football team in past years are asked to be turned into the Newman's Women's Apparel shop, at 629 Main St., Stroudsburg, as soon as possible, it was learned last night.

Yanks Even Series With Giants, 6-2

Lo, instead of going into today's fifth contest on their home lot with a firm grip on the winners' share of what will be a record World Series split, Durocher's miracle boys must face Eddie Lopat, their southpaw tormentor of the second game, on dead even terms.

But for Sunday's day long rain which made the outfield a marsh, "Casey" Stengel would have been forced to go yesterday with Tom Morgan, a rookie, instead of Reynolds, one of his top aces.

However, in view of Maglie's failure to hold the Bombers, it was far from a certainty that the Yanks would not have won anyway. Morgan did some sharp flinging during the season.

No matter what happens today, the rich playoff now is bound to go back to the Yankee stadium tomorrow for the sixth contest and the seventh, if it is necessary to reach a decision. The world champions will have the advantage of finishing on their home soil.

It was plain from the very start yesterday that Maglie, with an unaccustomed four days rest since the playoff with Brooklyn, was not at his best. He was missing the corners with his curves, and he was forced to toss 25 pitches before he retired the Yanks in the first.

In Trouble
When the Yanks got a run across in the second inning to tie the count at 1-1 and then forged ahead with another in the fourth by rapping two singles around a walk, it was obvious that the Giants were in trouble. By that time Reynolds had settled down from an uncertain first frame and was spinning magic.

The Giants had chalked up one in the opener on the first of Dar's three straight doubles and Monte Irvin's ground single into left. That was all they were to do to Reynolds until their brief but abortive explosion in the ninth.

Now and then the Polo Grounds threatened to get at Allie, but he never failed to have the answer. Either he blew a third strike past the batter or the unhappy Willie Mays came up at an inopportune time.

From the second inning through the eighth, the Giants collected only four hits.

Three Tie For Golf Honors

Kansas City, (AP)—A mixture of sand trap trouble and a short putt on the final hole landed three players—Cary Middlecoff, Dave Douglas and Dave Ford—in a tie for first place in the $15,000 Kansas City Open golf tournament at the end of the scheduled 72 holes yesterday.

Playoff
All three players had 72-hole scores of 278 over the 6,500-yard, par 72 Milburn Country club course. They will tangle in an 18-hole playoff for the top prize money today.

Bushkill League Rolls

Federal Grand Jury Launches Nationwide Investigation Of Professional Ring Setup

New York (AP)—A nationwide investigation of professional boxing got under way yesterday before a federal grand jury at the direction of U. S. Attorney General Howard McGrath.

The jury will seek to determine whether federal anti-trust laws have been violated and to inquire into possible monopolistic holds on boxing champions.

Although no specific organizations were mentioned by the attorneys yesterday, the jury was expected to dig into the activities of the sprawling International Boxing Club which promotes boxing in arenas in New York, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis. The IBC has a better than million dollar contract for the network telecasts and broadcasts of boxing bouts on Wednesday and Friday nights.

In Washington, Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morrison, in charge of the anti-trust division, said the action is being taken "on the basis of numerous complaints and a preliminary investigation."

The New York jury, Morrison said, will inquire into "possible monopoly of professional championship boxing."

Three witnesses were heard yesterday and several others, including middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, and his manager, George Gainford, have been subpoenaed for today. The three called yesterday were Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring magazine; Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the State Athletic Commission, and John Grombach, co-manager of French middleweight contender Laurent Dauthuille and former boxing commissioner of the Panama Canal Zone.

Robinson undoubtedly will be asked whether he has signed an exclusive contract with the IBC. The IBC and other major boxing outfits in the past, have made it a practice to sign champions to exclusives when possible.

The probe expected to go as far back as 1910 and to involve all persons and firms "engaged or having been engaged in the promotion, exhibition, televising, broadcasting and motion picture production of professional boxing."

Among those expected to be subpoenaed are former heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

Pen Argyl Nips Stroudsburg In Junior Varsity Battle, 6-0

A blocked kick, a 21-yard scamper and a four-yard plunge off right tackle, with two minutes remaining in the third period, enabled the Pen Argyl junior varsity grid machine to defeat the Stroudsburg yearlings, 6-0, at Gordon Giffels field yesterday afternoon.

Sherwood Kale blocked a Stroudsburg punt on the latter's 25 yard line to set up the first and only score of the game. Tom Flood then circled his own left end, before being pulled down on the Stroudsburg four yard stripe.

Touchdown
Jack Zavacky, Pen Argyl fullback, then went off tackle for four yards and the game's only six pointer. The extra point attempt met with failure.

Stroudsburg had several scoring opportunities, but fumbles proved disastrous on each occasion.

Major Leagues Take Lid Off Broadcasts

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

New York (AP)—The major leagues took the lid off broadcasting and televising baseball game yesterday by repealing the rule which allowed home clubs to veto out-of-town broadcasts in cities where games actually were being played.

At a joint meeting of the National and American leagues major league rule one (D), the restrictive rule, was repealed and complete control of rights to broadcast a telecast home games was returning to the individual clubs, subject only to the rights of the visiting team.

By the same action, the two leagues withdrew from any connection with the sale of air rights. Hereafter, each club will act independently of all other clubs and free from any major league rule or agreement in these matters.

Ends Deal

This ends such package deals as last year's "game of the day" broadcasts, arranged through league offices, but it still is possible for broadcasting chains to establish similar daily programs by making separate arrangements with the individual clubs.

The action struck a sharp blow to the efforts of the minor leagues already suffering severe losses in attendance attributed to the "invasion" of their territory by big league broadcasts, to exercise some control over radio and television in their territory.

Major league rule one (D) provided that no major league club could authorize broadcasts or telecasts from a station located within the home territory of another major or minor club during the time that club was playing a home game, except with the consent of that club.

Lions Club To Sponsor E-J Choir

Directors of the Stroudsburg Lions club, meeting last night at the municipal building, arranged for the appearance of the Endicott-Johnson choir on Friday, November 16, decided to sponsor Biddy Basketball in the community, and transacted other business preparatory to the club meeting tonight.

The presenting of the famed York State singers was made possible through cooperation between two local service groups, the Lions and the Community Concert Corp. While the Lions had listed the November 16 date some time ago, it developed that this conflicted with the opening of the Community Concert series. The postponement of the series opening necessitated considerable work on the part of the Community Concert group. This was graciously attended to and the date cleared for the Lions. Postponement of their concert date was impossible because of the full itinerary of the singers. The club members expressed deep appreciation of the cooperation given them.

Fred Albert is chairman of the club committee on the contest and serving with him are Club Secretary Harold Snyder, Tom DeVivo and others. The concert will be given at the Stroudsburg High school auditorium. Net receipts are earmarked for the club's "eye-glass fund."

The Community Concert season will now open on December 5.

Mr. DeVivo explained to the directors the costs of Biddy Basketball sponsorship and the scope of the activity, which he said will prove of great benefit to many local young people. It is contemplated that there will be six teams and the Lions are sponsoring the overall management. A definite limit on expenses was set.

Lions Hinton, DeVivo and Reader were appointed a committee to arrange to send Christmas gifts to Germany to help a party to be held for poor children of both West and East zones under the auspices of a Monroe county soldier, Clair N. Staples, and his comrades. The appeal of the soldier was printed recently in The Daily Record.

Tentative plans for the purchase and dressing of dolls for distribution to underprivileged children of Monroe county were considered. Dick Groner, Robert Haigh and Henry Reader were assigned to this activity.

Mr. John Kovich is receiving his basic training at Sampson air base, Sampson, N. Y.

The Senior class will hold a dance and entertainment at the Coolbaugh Twp. High School on Friday evening, Oct. 19. The Polka Dot orchestra will furnish music.

The Sophomore Class of the school will hold a Bake Sale on Saturday, October 20.

The Junior class will sponsor a 3-act full evening comedy-drama on Wednesday evening, November 21 and Friday evening, November 30.

Mr. P. J. Fahey and Mrs. Frank Dalley spent Friday in New York City, where they attended the world series game at the Yankee Stadium.

Marjorie Fadden, R.N., General Hospital, spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Helen Fadden.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. George George were the Misses Grace Woolever and Melissa Moore of Scranton.

Rev. Alfred Haas, instructor at Drew University, administered Communion at the morning service, Tobyhanna Methodist church, on Sunday.

Pfc. and Mrs. Leroy Schoch, Fort Devlin, Mass. were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Schoch, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoehne visited Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bender and Mrs. Thomas Hoehne, of Gouldsboro, on Sunday. The latter will join her husband, Cpl. Thomas Hoehne, who is stationed in England, sometime in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark and family, of Easton; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Pope and children, Stroudsburg, visited the Fred H. Pope family during the past week.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry Smith and sons, Ronald and Richard, of Union Center, N. Y., were guests of the P. D. Frankenhof family during the past week.

Adventist Publisher Speaks Here

Seventh-day Adventist church members last night heard a Washington, D. C., publishing official speak at special services at the local church, Second St.

Elder Rollin J. Christian, circulation manager of the Review and Herald Publishing association, a subsidiary organization of the Adventist denomination, was in Stroudsburg last night in one stop of a six-day 14-city itinerary in eastern Pennsylvania this week.

Progress of Adventist missions program in all parts of the world was told by Christian at the program. He also told of advances in publishing activities of 50 Adventist publishing plants around the world. Russell R. Adams, pastor of the local church, presided at the program.

A technicolor motion picture, "Century of Progress," the story of the hundred year progress of the church, was shown.

Accompanying the visiting speaker to Stroudsburg and participating on the program was Donald A. Roth, public relations secretary of the East Pennsylvania conference, Reading, Pa.

This morning delegates of the local Dorcas Welfare society will leave for Pottsville, Pa., where they will attend the annual meeting of the Central Pennsylvania Dorcas Welfare association. They will join delegates from eleven other cities in the all-day meeting.

In "Bright Star" these two great stars have surpassed their greatest performances in the movies, by making this new radio series the newlingest half-hour ever on the air.

Supporting these two great stars of screen and radio are such notables as Harry Von Zell, Irv Orton's orchestra and an all-star cast. Harry Von Zell, featured announcer on many network comedy shows superbly handles the announcing on "Bright Star." Irv Orton with his excellent orchestra carries the background music and the musical score brilliantly.

For an action-full, event-full, laugh-plot of newspaper feud, a fuss'n and fun, don't miss "Bright Star" over WVPO Sunday at 1:30 sponsored by The Daily Record.

Exalted Ruler Howard R. Davis of Williamsport, Pa., estimated that 1,050,000 Elks lodge members and their families throughout the nation will provide the bulk of 250,000 pints a month needed in Korea between now and next July.

Davis is visiting the New England lodges urging cooperation in the national order's blood drive.

Marie Antoinette is credited with glamorizing special footwear for ladies' boudoir attire.

The Senior class of the Coolbaugh Twp. Volunteer Fire Company will meet at Blake's Beechwood on Tuesday evening, Oct. 9, 8:00 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rice, Jr., and son, have returned to Philadelphia after spending the summer months with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Vashishan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bishong, of Stroudsburg, visited Mr. and Mrs.

Months Of Creative Work Go Into New Comedy Show

The many months of preparation before the production of the new radio series "Bright Star" has paid off with the release of the funniest, sunniest, honey-est radio show ever on the air.

This gay, new exciting comedy adventure series co-stars Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray and is heard over WVPO every Sunday at 1:30 and is sponsored by The Daily Record.

For months prior to the cutting of this new radio series top Hollywood script writers were feverishly at work. Many long days and nights went into the creation of the hilarious situations that have made this radio show the huge success it is. Working hand-in-hand with the script writers were a team of production experts. In this virtual beehive of activity these experts devised many new techniques for the accentuation of the hilarity of this gay comedy adventure series.

Favorite of millions, the popular star, Fred MacMurray, plays the ace reporter who hates lady bosses, and the famous academy award winner Irene Dunne plays the lady editor who hates reporters.

Both of these stars bring to this exciting new series the same brilliant acting ability that has made big box office records for such movies as "The Egg and I," "Life With Father," "Father Was a Fullback," "The Awful Truth," "Never a Dull Moment," and many others.

In "Bright Star" these two great stars have surpassed their greatest performances in the movies, by making this new radio series the newlingest half-hour ever on the air.

Supporting these two great stars of screen and radio are such notables as Harry Von Zell, Irv Orton's orchestra and an all-star cast. Harry Von Zell, featured announcer on many network comedy shows superbly handles the announcing on "Bright Star." Irv Orton with his excellent orchestra carries the background music and the musical score brilliantly.

For an action-full, event-full, laugh-plot of newspaper feud, a fuss'n and fun, don't miss "Bright Star" over WVPO Sunday at 1:30 sponsored by The Daily Record.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
